To Whom It May Concern:

Art Goes To School of Delaware Valley has been providing art appreciation and education to elementary age students for fifty-five years. We present a portfolio of prints to the class and encourage children to think about, to look at and to understand art through interactive lessons. Our organization is comprised entirely of volunteers from the forty-one districts and communities we serve throughout Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Yearly we ask each of our participating school districts within the Delaware Valley to submit a membership fee in support of the program. As a not for profit organization comprised entirely of volunteers, these dues directly fund the organization as a whole. The purchase, storage and maintenance of prints and portfolio cases, continuing education for members through lectures, museum visits and training, as well as operational expenditures would not be possible without this funding. Therefore, we are asking for a per member contribution in support of our program.

We are indebted to the PTO, PTA and HSA organizations throughout Eastern PA and Southern NJ who continue to see the value in our program. Our shared goal is to add to the array of services and enrichment they help provide for students.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Lisa Gressen
