

weekly half-price tickets

a service of phillyfun GUIDE.

Dear FunSavers Subscriber,

We did it! Last Thursday, City Council passed a budget that Mayor Nutter will sign shortly that includes a $1.3 million increase to the Philadelphia Cultural Fund's budget, including $500,000 for Youth Arts Enrichment Grants, which will provide project support for arts-education programs serving K-12 students in the Philadelphia School District. This funding supports the arts and cultural organizations you have grown to love through Funsavers and provides thousands of children arts education through the PCF's Youth Arts Enrichment grants.

Whether you signed the petition, sent an email, posted to your Facebook or Twitter, or cheered from the sidelines, you've given a voice to Philadelphia's arts and cultural sector. As we celebrate this exciting win, I invite you to help us keep the momentum going. We still have a long way to go for Philadelphia – including efforts to ensure that arts and culture are a part of the conversation in both the upcoming Gubernatorial and Mayoral elections.

Support the movement today by becoming a Groundswell Contributing Member for only $25. And as an added bonus for Funsavers subscribers, the first 50 people to join will also win a voucher for 2 free tickets to the Mann Center to see Beethoven's Ninth Symphony with the Philadelphia Orchestra on June 27, 2014.

Join Groundswell Today!

Help keep the momentum going!

Sincerely,
John McInerney
Vice President of Marketing & Communications
Funsavers & Phillyfunguide.com